EARHART LANDS PLANE IN HONOLULU

Suspended Policemen Have Hearing Friday

CASKEY, SAFETY CHIEF, TO SET NUMBER OF DAYS

Attorneys to Appear For Shasteen and Radcliff at 1:30 O'Clock

WITNESSES CALLED

Official's Decision May be Appealed to Commission

Alva Shasteen and Carl Radcliff, members of the Circleville police force, will begin their fight against suspension when they appear before Safety Director Charles Caskey Friday at 1:30 p. m. in the council chamber of City Hall.

Mr. Caskey set the date for the hearing at noon Thursday when he conferred with Joe W. Adkins Jr., attorney for Radcliff. Emmitt L. Crist represents Shasteen. Solicitor Carl Leist will be present to represent the safety director in an advisory capacity.

Both officers, serving with Patrolman George Green on night duty, were suspended a few minutes after midnight Tuesday by Police Chief William McCrady on orders of the safety director. Shasteen is charged with three violations and Radcliff faces two.

To Determine Length After the hearing, in which Mr. Caskey is expected to call his witnesses, he will determine the length of the suspension or find the officers not guilty of charges.

If the suspension is lengthy, it is believed, the officers will appeal for a hearing before the Civil Service Commission, comprised of James McLaughlin, Harry L. Bartholomew, and James Wickens. If the decision of the commission goes against them, they may appeal to common pleas court.

Raymond Delong, Town street, and Wayne Morgan, W. Water street, were appointed special policemen by Safety Director Caskey and sworn in by Mayor W. J. Graham to replace the suspended men.

The suspensions have roused much interest in the city, since much "fireworks" is expected if the case goes very far.

NEW THRILLER STARTS TODAY IN THE HERALD

"The Mouthpiece", a thrilling mystery serial story written by the late Edgar Wallace, begins Thursday in The Daily Herald.

Wallace, a London war correspondent until he turned author in 1906, wrote more than 150 novels, 20 plays and several thousand short stories and articles. At the peak of his popularity shortly before his death in 1932, his tales of mystery and adventure sold at the rate of 5,000,000 yearly.

RICH OHIO MAN, DIVORCEE JAILED

Cable, Woman Submit to Lie Detector Test, Canton is Informed

CANTON, March 18 — (UP) — Dueble S. Cable, moneyed contractor, and his admitted mistress, Theresa Ludwig, both were jailed today for the first time since the shotgun slaying of Cable's socialite wife and attendant revelations of a "co-operative love nest."

Reports persisted that Cable, lean and 47, and his admitted mistress Theresa Ludwig, plump and 45, had been subjected to "lie detector" tests.

Cable, hacking with a cough and swallowing "heart pills," was held "for further investigation in connection with the murder of his wife."

Miss Ludwig, a divorcee, was placed in jail for the first time since she was held for suspicion several days ago.

Both were sped to the city jail in an armored automobile after nightlong questioning in nearby Wooster, O.

The tense attitude of officials indicated some kind of break was near in the mystery of how Cable's Sunday school teacher wife died a week ago tonight of 273 birdshot pellets fired into the palatial Cable home.

SOLICITOR PAYS $2 PENALTY AS HIS CLOCK FAILS

Carl C. Leist, solicitor and the man who prepared the traffic ordinance that has caused considerable interest among local motorists in recent weeks, was tangled up with regulation Wednesday. He visited Mayor William Graham with his $2.

Mr. Leist uses an alarm clock it is said in his office to keep a check on his parking. Something happened to the clock, it failed to ring at the right time, and Mr. Leist found one of those little red tickets adorning his car.

SUNFISH IN SANITARY SEWER PUZZLE MAVIS

How did two sunfish get in a sanitary sewer in the south-end?

J. F. Mavis, service director, asked councilmen to figure out the puzzle Wednesday night. He said a manhole was opened on E. Mill street between Court and Pickaway streets to clear out the sewer. Two sunfish were found.

It is believed the fish swam into the sewer during the recent flood and decided to stay.

80 FAVOR LAW TO LIMIT HIGH COURT'S POWER

Rep. Thom, of Canton, Says Poll of House Shows Trend of Feeling

COMMITTEE IN ACTION

Members of Tribunal May be Asked to Testify

WASHINGTON, March 18 — (UP)—Rep. William R. Thom, D., O., foe of President Roosevelt's court plan, said today that a poll of house Democrats showed 80 members would support a proposal requiring a two thirds supreme court majority to invalidate acts of congress.

Thom announced results of his poll as the senate judiciary committee considered inviting members or attaches of the supreme court to testify on Mr. Roosevelt's proposal for enlargement of the tribunal.

Today the committee continued testimony by professorial supporters of the court plan, calling Dean Leon Green of Northwestern university law school.

Thom said he had received written or verbal assurances from 80 house Democrats that they would support a proposal to require a two-thirds vote by the supreme court in invalidating acts of congress.

DOLLAR FOLLOWS FIRST SENT FOR LAW VIOLATION

There is an Indiana motorist who is so honest he has the Circleville police department puzzled. An unusual feature of the case is they don't know his name.

On March 4 a letter was mailed in Circleville to the department with $1 inclosed with the following note: "Parked this car at 1:15 p. m., went after same at 3:35 p. m., twenty minutes overtime. Hardly fail to ticket a traveling man for so short a time for over parking as it is hard for us to get away on time when calling on a customer. Can't be at your office at 6 p. m. as will be out of town."

Mayor W. J. Graham said he did not consider the case unusual until a second letter arrived from Muncie, Ind., dated March 6. It said "Was tagged at your city for 20 minutes overtime parking. I understood $1 was the penalty for the first offense. But since I heard it was $2, I enclosed $1 with the ticket. Attached is another dollar as I do not want to beat you."

Neither note was signed but officers said the license number of the car was 336,248 from Indiana. If the salesman had signed his notes he probably would have received the money back as police have not been assessing out-of-state motorists.

MISS VALENTINE, 27, OF ASHVILLE, DIES SUDDENLY

Miss Louise Iona Valentine, 27, died suddenly Thursday at 8 a. m. of heart disease as she started up the steps of the A. B. Cooper residence in Ashville where she was working.

Dr. L. C. Schiff, Ashville, was called, but Miss Valentine was dead before he could reach her. Coroner C. E. Bowers was summoned, too.

Miss Valentine, who resided at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bates Alexander, appeared in good health and was feeling well when she left the Alexander home to go to Cooper's.

Her parents, Fred and Chloe Valentine are both dead. Funeral arrangements, in charge of E. F. Schlegel, have not been completed.

Burkhart To Speak At School

Capacity Crowd Present at Second Session of Daily Herald Institute

Another crowded house represented the second day's attendance of The Daily Herald's cooking school Thursday afternoon at the Cliftona Theatre.

Housewives witnessed a new type of food demonstration carried on entirely in dialogue between Miss Kathryn Streich and Miss Maxine Robertson, home economists of The Gas Company. The informality of the meeting caused much favorable comment, the demonstrators being most interesting.

Identical street dresses were worn by the young ladies in charge, who later donned identical aprons when the food servings were prepared.

An outstanding feature of tomorrow afternoon's final session of the school, sponsored by The Herald, will be the appearance of Dr. Roy A. Burkhardt, Columbus, consultant psychologist. He will discuss modern home problems with Circleville and Pickaway county housewives. Dr. Burkhardt's personalization of the topic "Domestic Engineering" will emphasize the subject of improvement and harmony in family relations.

Preceding the psychologist's lecture, "Health Day" will be featured in the closing session of the school. Simmer cooking will be demonstrated as an approved method of preparing vegetable servings, preserving their healthful qualities.

As has been the practice the first two days, recipe sheets will again be given at tomorrow's meeting. The three days' recipes will be presented in a beautiful Home-makers Recipe File, which may hold additional recipes and be indexed under numerous food classifications.

A divided-top range will be awarded as grand prize at the final day's session. There will also be bags of groceries and other valuable merchandise prizes. Tomorrow's meeting starts promptly at 2 p. m., preceded by the style review of the Crist Department store.

Mrs. Tom Renick introduced and described the various frocks and other apparel worn by the models, who included Mrs. Austin Dowden, Mrs. Robert Ekins, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, and Miss Dorothy Soule. Little Lydia Ann Given, daughter, (Continued on Page 14)

OHIO OFFICIALS TOLD TO EXPLAIN RELIEF ACCOUNT

COLUMBUS, March 18 — (UP) — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and Finance Director M. Ray Allison were called upon today to explain why $1,330,000 in grants made by the state relief commission in January were not paid to the counties.

In a resolution introduced by Sen. John F. Connolly, D., Lucas and passed by a viva voce vote yesterday, it was charged the funds were submitted to the finance director for certification of payment Jan. 12, 14 and 17 but that the money was not received by the counties.

Allison said the delay was due to a lack of funds in the state's general fund. Payment would cripple normal government operations, he said.

The relief commission vouchers have been in Allison's office for two months. Ferguson said he could not issue the checks until Allison approved the vouchers.

Chrysler, Lewis Confab Sought in Washington

DETROIT, March 18 — (UP) — Chrysler Corporation attorneys today drew up legal documents designed to force the eviction of 6,000 sit-down strikers from $50,000,000 worth of property in the Detroit area, made 60,000 Chrysler employees jobless.

WASHINGTON, March 18 — (UP) — Federal officials sought today to arrange a conference between Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler Corporation, and John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, in the hope of settling strikes that have 60,000 Chrysler employees jobless.

Simultaneously, administration leaders showed concern over the spread of sit-down strikes and indicated that a study of legislative means to control the situation was under way. It was learned that the American Federation of Labor soon will issue a formal statement condemning the sit-down method.

Both in New York As congress turned its attention for the first time to the strike situation, it was disclosed that federal representatives are striving to arrange a meeting between Chrysler and Lewis. Both men now are in New York.

Government mediators, working in secrecy, so far have been unsuccessful in their attempts. They are acting in cooperation with Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan who has been trying to induce Chrysler and Lewis to come to Detroit for conferences similar to that which ended the General Motors dispute.

From sources close to Chrysler it was learned that he desires to make no move at this time. He feels that it is time to test the authority of courts in dealing with sit-down strikes and expects to await results of legal efforts to evict the strikers in his plants before taking any action.

Chrysler's decision was made after talks with several business and financial leaders. It was said that he will only meet with Lewis if he feels that he can not receive adequate recourse through the injunction against strikers.

FORMER OHIOAN SHOOTS THREE, TAKES OWN LIFE

TACOMA, Wash., March 18 — (UP) — Authorities said today that apparently despondency prompted James Merritt Arthur, 43, to shoot his wife and two daughters to death and then take his own life.

Apparently Arthur, manager of an automobile tire company branch here, shot his wife late yesterday outside their luxurious Lake Steelcum home. Then he killed the children, Mary Ann, 15, and Janet, 8, when they rode home from school on their bicycles.

Both Arthur and his wife, Anna, 40, were graduates of DePaul university.

HOWLAND ISLAND NEXT

Speed Reduced to Average 157 Miles an Hour

HONOLULU, T. H., March 18 — (UP) — Amelia Earhart Putnam completed the first lap of her globe-circling flight today when she brought her big Lockheed electric plane down on Wheeler field at 11:25 a. m., E.S.T.

She led an aerial parade across the Pacific which started late yesterday from Oakland, Calif., taking her swift plane, a virtual flying laboratory that cost $20,000, were two giant clippers of the Pan-American fleet, one bound for New Zealand, the other for the Philippines.

After three days of delay due to storms over Pacific, Earhart Putnam took off from Oakland at 7:38 p. m., E.S.T. yesterday, she made the 2,410 mile flight in 15 hours and 47 minutes.

Howland Into Next After a few hours of rest, Earhart Putnam will take off for Howland island, a tiny spot in the Pacific.

Her average speed was 157 miles an hour. During the stage of the flight she averaged 170 miles an hour but had to slow down so that she would arrive at Wheeler field, the army's largest air base, after dawn.

Accompanying her were Paul Mantz, her technical adviser, Capt. Harry Manning, marine and air navigator, and Fred Noonan, former Pan-American pilot who has made 18 round trips from California to Manila.

Her route was the long way around the earth, on a line nearly paralleling the equator and a total of 27,000 miles. The second goal is tiny Howland island, 1,900 miles (Continued on Page 14)

WALLY'S DIVORCE CASE IN COURTS, LONDON REPORTS

LONDON, March 18 — (UP) — Impending legal action to annul the divorce of Mrs. Wallis Simpson and prevent her marriage to the Duke of Windsor, who abdicated as King Edward VIII for love of her, was indicated today by a brief item in tomorrow's cause list of the law courts.

The item did not name the intervenor, who was understood to be a private person.

The announcement merely said that the king's proctor, who has the power to step in and show cause why a decree nisi should be set aside, will appear at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in chambers before the president of the divorce courts, Sir Boyd Merriam, to ask for "directions."

It is understood that the intervention is of the "common informer" type of action in which any member of the public may appear to give information. A reliable source said the intervenor is not an individual of prominence and is not directly involved in the case.

Mrs. Simpson's divorce is not due to become final until April 27. It was expected the king's proctor probably would present details of the basis for intervention. If they were considered sufficiently justifiable, the court probably would instruct the proctor to advise the intervenor that the case is not willing to proceed.

Thereupon it would be up to the intervenor to decide if he wanted to proceed with the proctor's assistance.

NO RABIES CASES

County health officials reported Thursday no positive rabies cases have been found. Negative reports were made by M. J. Egan, veterinarian, and a dog owned by the Shuman family, Warren.

COUNCIL CHOOSES SITE BACK OF STRAWBOARD FOR SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

TWO VOTE 'NO' AFTER LENGTHY PROJECT TALK

Courtright Oppose Early Action, Engineer Saying River May be Moved

"CAN USE PIPE" — MARION

Gordon, Helwage Opposed to Location Selected

City council by a vote of five to two Wednesday night selected the site back of the Container Corporation for the proposed disposal plant, but delayed further steps in the general program until they solve several "new angles" presented by David Courtright, city engineer, and Vattier Courtright, field engineer for W.P.A.

The council session went into a lengthy discussion of the "new angles" when the city engineer asked the record show he recommended the program, being speeded by councilmen, be "deferred for further study".

Browne Cites Prices

His recommendation followed an appeal by Floyd G. Browne, Marion, O., consulting engineer, to councilmen to take further action toward construction of the plant as soon as possible explaining materials were rapidly advancing in price and favorable weather for plant construction was just ahead.

The next step in the general program would be the employment of Mr. Browne to prepare general plans and specifications. His preliminary report has been approved by the state department of health.

The city engineer contended the consulting engineer was "getting ahead of the general affairs" and said he had some "phases of the general program to talk over with council."

May Change Road

Vattier Courtright, W.P.A. engineer, informed councilmen he understood plans were under consideration for improvements on the road west of Circleville that would take the river further away from the city.

"If you saw the road during the last flood you could see where the current crosses," he said. "You know something must be done about the road and the course of the river may be changed." The plans, he explained, were to be considered "within the next eight or nine years."

"Reports show if it wasn't for the strawboard Circleville would not need a treatment plant," he said. "You don't have to vote anything definite tonight, investigate these conditions first. Has the state board of health actually ordered the city to build a plant? What assurance have you that federal aid will be obtained, and what assurance have you the strawboard will be forced to build a plant?"

His brother explained Circleville had many advantages over other small cities through having a large stream close at hand. "I'm safe in saying one-half of our city is not in the sanitary sewer system," he said. He recalled the president's message on his Natural Resources committee in which appropriations were asked to study pollution problems.

Remarks of the two engineers brought out numerous expressions from councilmen.

Councilmen Speak

"We've been talking sewage plants for years," Councilman Tull Barnes said, "and I believe the city engineer should have presented his exceptions before this time. I'm for going ahead with the plans."

Councilman Harry Steinhilber opposed a plan suggested that the

Helen Morgan, who has demonstrated an ample talent for engineer he employed to complete the program. He suggested the sanitary engineer be employed only for the next step, the preparations of plans and specifications.

"Why talk about a delay of eight or nine years in this thing," Frank Marion added. "I don't think we're interested in moving the river. The longer we delay the more meat we are furnishing for lawyers. If we keep our share of the river clean we don't have to worry. If they move the river we can run a pipe out to it. I do know that people are prepared to bring suits against Circleville if we don't clean up."

The city engineer further asked that council investigate the type of plant suggested. "You men didn't like the Norwalk, O., plant and now your getting the same equipment," he said. "What's the use of Circleville cleaning up one-fourth of the sewage and leaving three-fourths go into the river from the strawboard?"

Councilmen Ben Gordon and Julius Helwage voted "no" on the site selection. Steinhilber voted no at first then changed his vote.

Solicitor to Act

The sewage plant discussion closed with council instructing the solicitor to determine what power the state board of health has to make industrial plants treat wastes, if the city builds a plant can the state board of health force an industrial plant to treat its wastes, and to obtain a written statement from the strawboard as to whether the plant wishes to join with the city in a treatment industrial problem.

Psychologist Carnegie became famous when the American public, almost as eager to find a workable formula for success as it is to hear good "torch-singing," made his book a best-seller. The exact nature of his contribution to Show Boat is yet to be announced.

Al Goodman's orchestra, the Modern Choir, and Molasses 'n' January will be on hand as usual.

Richard Wrightsel, of Portsmouth, grandson of Mrs. John Wrightsel, E. Franklin street, has received a letter of appreciation from Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche of the United States navy for his commendable assistance with his shortwave radio station W8KYQ during the recent flood of the Ohio-Mississippi valley.

Besides assisting the U. S. coast guard in their communications, Wrightsel was official Red Cross operator at his home in Portsmouth. The effectiveness of his work is shown by the fact that 8,000 were rescued and only one life lost. At first he transmitted and received personal messages. He aided many persons in this manner. As the Red Cross work increased he was limited to that. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Wrightsel, of Portsmouth, former residents of Circleville. His mother, formerly Hazel Hoffman, was a teacher in the Pickaway township school for several years.

Big Time Planned
All the Ashville business men have been invited to the Grove & Rhodes Fish Fry held Friday. Dozens and dozens of our farmer friends are in the "same kind of trouble." We know that it occurs to all of you that a community affair is a manner similar to this Grove & Rhodes "party" and held at a fixed date each month, would result in much good to all of us. We once had a live Community Club and did things that helped a lot. Will refrain from saying now a lot more that should be said.

Many Books Available During Lenten Season

Grouped together where they quickly catch the eye of visitors to the Public Library is a collection of books, chosen because of their popularity throughout the year but which are especially appropriate at this season.

In the group are titles by such well-known writers as E. Stanley Jones, Harry Emerson Fosdick, Bruce Barton, James Gordon Gilkey, Samuel Parks Cadman, Lyman Abbott, Henry Van Dyke, Charles Reynolds Browne, William Adams Brown, Lewis Browne, and many others.

Others, among the older books, which seem to belong to the Easter season, are Maud Van Buren's anthology "Easter in modern story", and "Easter; its history, celebration, spirit, and significance as related in prose verse". Another book of the Easter Season, not heard of so much now, but much discussed at the time of its publication is "Who moved the stone?", by Frank Morrison.

Outstanding among the new books added to the library during the last year is "THE RETURN TO RELIGION" by Henry C. Link. Without advertising, or special publicity, this book has been awakening a larger and larger circle of readers. One Circleville minister has reviewed at one of his weekly services, and a reader, who had found a personal message in the volume jotted down a recommendation, which he has given the librarian permission to use.

Expert Advice—Free
"Did you ever go to an expert or specialist for advice? If you have, I'm sure your pocket-book was much lighter on the way home. If you have personal or family problems which seem unsolvable, if you are confused by the troubles which confront you, and not satisfied with yourself, here is a suggestion—in our own Public Library is a book, which, while no cure-all, contains help, encouragement, and advice by a man who has helped many. Possibly he can help you. Read "The Return to Religion", by H. C. Link—"Recommended by one who has been helped."

Other books of the last year, which have their place on a list of Lenten time reading, are—

SAILOR WRITES OF EXPERIENCE ON WEST COAST
Mr. and Mrs. William Friece, E. Mound street, received a letter from their son, Robert, a sailor on one of Uncle Sam's ships on the West coast. The letter is dated Feb. 18.

It follows:
"This is the end of a perfect day, if that is what you want to call it. But such is a sailor's life. "We went to sea Tuesday and came back Thursday, and what a time we had. Here are a few of the things that took place. You have probably read about some of it already. We lost one airplane, the Idaho lost two and the Maryland lost one. We picked up both of our pilots, but I don't know if the either ships got theirs. The planes light on water and come alongside the ships and we pick them up with a crane while the ship is making 10 knots (11 1/4 miles an hour). Our plane landed okeh and was pulling alongside when it hit a big wave, flew out of the water and crashed into the side of the ship. I was only a few yards from where it hit. It knocked both pilots out into the water, but we picked them up.

"I have seen some rough weather, but nothing like the last two days. This ship weighs 32,600 tons and it was practically picked up and dropped by the rough water. One ship lost a man overboard and another fell between two boats and was crushed. This noon a gun blew up on the ship and I don't know how many were killed or hurt. "This has certainly been a luck week. It is hard to tell what will happen next. This is about all I know this time."

Love,
"Robert"

Dinner Stories
HARD ON HUSBANDS!
"It says here," said one spinster, reading from a newspaper, "that a woman in New York has just created her third husband."

"Oh, isn't that just the way of things!" cried the other spinster. "Some of us can't get one, and other women have husbands to burn."

Leslie Howard
says Luckies are "tops" with his throat

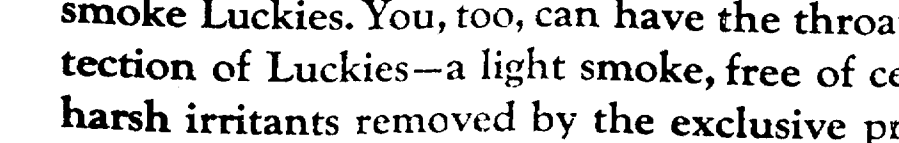

"Years ago, as an ambitious young actor, I was impressed how well my throat liked Luckies and how well they suited my idea of a perfect cigarette. That impression still stands. In my recent tour of 'Hamlet', with its many performances each week and the attendant tax on my throat, I have been convinced anew that this light smoke is both delightful to my taste and the 'top' cigarette for an actor's throat."

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Howard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

FARMERS CITED AS FIRST LINK IN FLOOD CURB

Increased Contour Tillage and Terracing Urged by Soil Expert

TWO FACTORS CITED 20,000 Co-operating During Conservation Program

WASHINGTON, March 18 (UP)

Expansion of contour tillage and terracing is urged by H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, as a "primary method" of flood control.

Experience and scientific experiments have proved that farming practices that conserve soil and water have a directly beneficial bearing on the control of floods and alleviation of drought conditions, Bennett said.

The effectiveness of soil and water conservation at flood sources in minimizing floods, Bennett said, is substantiated by several factors.

Quick Run-off Stressed

He listed these two as important:

1. Flood loads are due in large part to rapid surface run-off of rainfall or melting snow and quick concentration of this water in stream channels.
2. The upland soils of a watershed.

LAKES SHIPPING MOVES TOWARD HIGH SET IN '29

Fleets Enlarged to Meet Freightage Demands of Iron Ore and Coal

RECORDS SHATTERED

Shipyards Vibrant With Great Activity

CLEVELAND, March 12—(UP)—Great Lakes shippers, emerging from lean years, are looking forward to one of the busiest seasons in their history.

Bulk of the freight moved on the lakes is composed of ore and coal. More than 800 vessels ply the waterways. Freighters sail northward with iron ore, steam northward again with coal. There in Lake Erie ports they meet and make the exchange.

Daily Metal Trade, Cleveland industrial publication, estimates iron ore tonnage handled on the lakes this year may run as high as from 55,000,000 to 65,000,000. Should it reach the latter total it will be just below the all-time record of 65,204,600 set in 1929.

Coal movements smashed all previous records last season when they climbed to 44,699,443 tons. This year's total is expected to be near that figure, but some authorities believe pressure from reserve supplies, kept intact through a mild winter, may hold down tonnage.

Bottom Reached in 1932 Shippers touched bottom in 1932 when freight tonnage on the Great Lakes amounted to 41,672,761, less than one-third of 1929's total of 138,574,441. Last year the total mounted to 114,414,748, the highest since 1929, and within respectable distance of the boom-year tonnage totals.

Lake carriers haul cargoes other than ore and coal. Grain from the wheat farms of the great Northwest is an important part of their commerce. Grain tonnage was lowest in 1935, when the drought and the depression combined to hold it to 6,750,261. Last year it had bounced back to 7,433,987.

Lake-front shipyards are vibrant with activity nowadays. Dozens of vessels, unused during

To Direct Arsenal

COL. Norman F. Ramsey of Washington, D. C., now in charge of the ammunition and artillery division with the chief of ordnance for the war department in Washington, has been named the new commandant in charge of the Rock Island, Ill., arsenal, largest in the U. S., effective June 28. As such, he will succeed his former West Point classmate, Col. A. G. Gillespie.

the last five years, are being re-commissioned. Prospects for the shipbuilding industry are better.

Pittsburgh Steamship Company here, U. S. Steel subsidiary, operating the largest fleet on the Great Lakes has announced plans for construction of four new vessels, which will be put in service within a year.

Ships Cost $5,000,000 These boats will be the first built on the lakes since 1930. They will cost $5,000,000 and, added to the present fleet, will give the company 79 ships.

Shipping men are unanimous in predicting their busiest season since 1929. Some, even more optimistic, believe ore shipments may set an all-time record.

Brightening skies in the steel industry, where wage increases apparently have removed the menace of a general strike, are given as a reason. Worldwide rearmament programs, drawing heavily on steel mills, are cited as another. And in addition there is that hardy perennial—the development of new uses for metals.

Suspect in Murder of Belmont Countian

ESCAPE RECORD LONG

Four Counties Seek Custody
to 22-Year-Old Man

Kenneth "Red" Ayers, 22, an escaped inmate of the state school for the feeble-minded at Orient, is under arrest in St. Clairsville, Belmont county, in connection with investigation of a murder. Ayers was captured in Jefferson county, near Adena, and returned to St. Clairsville.

It was indicated a hearing to ascertain his sanity would be held. Several eastern Ohio counties want Ayers. Judge Harry Albright, of Belmont county, said: "He is a suspect in the Labor Day murder of Max Reed, 80-year-old St. Clairsville bachelor, whose head was beaten to a pulp in an attempted robbery. He is wanted in Jefferson county for grand larceny, and in Harrison county for assault with intent to rob."

Ayers has escaped from the feeble-minded institution three times, from the Belmont county jail twice, and six months ago escaped through a volley of gunfire from officers who cornered him near St. Clairsville.

He is wanted also in Tuscarawas county, of which he is a native, for automobile theft and for questioning in connection with operations of a thriving ring which has been preying on coal mines.

Terrors of Death Valley Continue To Plague Motion Picture Companies Who Dare Perils of Desert Wastes

STOVEPIPE WELLS, DEATH VALLEY, Cal.—Just as in the days when desperadoes used Death Valley for a hide-out, the terrors of death and hunger and heat continue to stalk along the trails of movie stars who trek over the scorching sands of this sunfire kingdom.

Hollywood's latest invasion of Death Valley, to make the picture "Death in Paradise Canyon," left this toll:

A beautiful Tennessee actress, starred in her first film, fell during the screening of a scene and suffered internal injuries that will keep her bed-ridden for many months.

An ace cameraman collapsed from the heat and died.

A famed New York character actor lost his way and wandered about for two days before a searching party rescued him.

Loses Footing

The actress was dark-haired, sparkling-eyed Helen Wood, who discovered that the green, rolling hills about her native Clarksville, Tenn., were poor training grounds for the sand dunes of Furnace creek, deep in Death Valley. Fatigued by the rigors of Nature's "set," she lost her footing in the loose rocks and tumbled down an embankment. Physicians report that many a month will pass before she faces a movie camera again.

Frantic over mounting production costs, the studio sought actress after actress to take the Tennesseean's place, only to be refused because of the perils and hardships. Betty Furness at last agreed to risk the dangers.

Chester Lyons was the cameraman who succumbed. For many grueling days, he had stood by his camera in the hot desert sun with powerful reflectors intensifying the heat. Late one evening, the picture almost completed, he was filming a darkened interior scene in which a movie detective disclosed how the victim had met his death. When the lights were turned on again, Lyons was found slumped on the floor, dead. Not even the macabre plot of the screen story could rival the real-life drama of his strange death.

Narrow Escape

J. Edward Bromberg, noted character actor of Broadway, was the one who narrowly escaped death from starvation and thirst. Returning from location one evening, he took what seemed to be a short cut to camp. Groping his way as dark came on, in the myriads of little trails that criss-cross the vicinity of Furnace creek, he realized he was lost in the "basement" of North America, that portion of Death Valley which is 275 feet below sea level. Finally, after two nights of bitter cold, punctuated by the blistering heat of the sun in the daytime, he was rescued by a searching party, and just in the nick of time.

Less tragic, but definitely embarrassing, was the predicament of John Howard Payne, recruited by Hollywood from the New York musical comedy stage. The jinx of Death Valley, striking with utmost impartiality, but Payne's stand-in to bed with exhaustion. To keep from delaying production, J. Edward Bromberg, Broadway character actor, and Billy Burrud, child star, gaze at Death Valley.

Helen Wood, Tennessee actress, still suffers from internal injuries received during the filming of a picture in Death Valley.

Payne volunteered to double for his double in a shot which required him to climb a hill charged with dynamite.

Trousers Blown Off

The explosions were supposed to go off just behind the handsome young actor as he ran up the hill. The plans somehow went amiss, though, and the charges were set off almost under his nose. When the smoke had cleared away, the hero was discovered without his trousers and suffering from superficial leg burns. Production was held up for three hours while horse-men rode 15 miles to the movie camp to get another pair of trousers.

Just as with other movie companies which have ventured into these grim and stark wastelands, misfortunes continue to plague the latest Hollywood trouper.

A raging sand storm, blowing like a gale across the Sahara, wrecked a set as though it were a child's toy and scattered it from the Funeral mountains to the Devil's golf course.

More sand storms followed for days, leaving eyes blood shot and skins blistered by the stinging, hot winds. Actresses shook sand out of their lingerie in the mornings before they dressed, ate sand with their meals, and dumped sand out of their shoes every hour.

And Snakes

Added to the perils of the sand storms were nests of rattlesnakes that almost proved death traps now and then as the untutored city folk stumbled into them. "Grips" and "prop" men alternated in standing guard to watch for tarantulas, the very sight of which would plunge already nervous actresses into hysterics.

In past years, such stars as Jean Harlow, Victor McLaglen and Ronald Colman have run the gamut of dangers on the deserts near here in search of thrills for the moviegoers, but the harrowing tales that they carried back to Hollywood have to upset the celluloid heroes and heroines that few today are willing to sign for pictures to be filmed in the no-man's-lands.

JUSTICE TO WIN AFTER 23 YEARS

TOKYO (UP)—After spending 23 years in prison, an innocent man, now well advanced in years, tracked down and wrung a confession from the real culprit.

Ishimatsu Yoshida was convicted in 1913 of murdering a man and robbing him on a road in Aichi prefecture. Testimony against him was by Loshihei Kitagawa and Shotaro Kaide, who said that Yoshida instigated the assault and subsequently killed the victim with a bamboo flute.

Yoshida was sent to the Akita prison. Released in 1935, he set out to hunt down his two former friends. He found Kitagawa at once, and Kitagawa readily wrote a confession saying that Kaide had forced him to testify against Yoshida.

Finding Kaide was more difficult and more than year elapsed before a piece of stray information sent Yoshida on the right trail. A newspaper, interested in the efforts of the aging man to vindicate himself before death located Kaide in Saitama prefecture.

Yoshida went immediately to the designated village. Coming into the town, Yoshida recognized in a street peddler his long-hunted enemy. Also Kaide recognized Yoshida. Kaide started to run, but Yoshida caught him and began beating him. Kaide cried out his confession, later put on paper. With the document, Yoshida expects to be exonerated at a retrial.

Inseparable in Life and Death

CLEVELAND (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Eberhardt Wirth were inseparable, even in death. Only a few hours after her husband had died of pneumonia at City Hospital, Mrs. Wirth, unaware of his death, died at the family home, of diabetes. Wirth was 52; his wife, 63. A double funeral was held.

CYCLING SAFETY WORRIES STATE

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP)—The New York legislature is concerned over the safety of bicyclists. If a pending bill is adopted, enthusiasts will have other things to worry about than merely pedaling.

Under a bill recommended by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, and sponsored by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Charles A. Harnett, bicycles are defined as vehicles "consisting of an arrangement or combination of two wheels, one following the other, supported by a frame, propelled by muscular power."

To avoid hazards of night driving, a series of safety devices are demanded, including:

1—Suitable and adequate head lamp.

2—Front and rear reflectors.

3—Suitable horn, bell or other device to produce a sound sufficiently loud to serve as a danger warning.

The bill would amend the vehicle and traffic law by inserting provisions applying specifically to bicycles. Already existing regulations governing bicycle riding are considered "stiff." They include:

1—No riding on sidewalks, except by children under 10.

2—No "passengers" permitted on handlebars.

3—That at least one hand must be kept on the handlebars.

Meantime the state traffic commission is considering the development of a busy traffic route in the state as a "model highway" to be provided with uniform lights, signs and markings.

"By concentration of efforts on one highway," said the commission, "we will develop the theory of standardization in actual practice, and the 'model highway' will be the pattern for other roads."

The commission was created by the legislature to study safety regulations and devices to reduce highway fatalities.

COUNCIL HEARS ORDINANCE FOR TAR, OIL BUYING

New Gutters, Spouting For Memorial Hall Urged in Legislation

STREET LIGHT ASKED

Storm Sewer Improvements Proposed by Engineer

Ordinances authorizing the service director to advertise for bids for installation of new gutters and spouting for Memorial Hall and to purchase tar and oil for street repairs were given readings in council Wednesday night, then tabled for further study.

The ordinance for Memorial Hall improvements listed copper equipment. Several councilmen reported copper had advanced in price and galvanized equipment should be considered. The ordinance was tabled for alterations.

Amount Undetermined

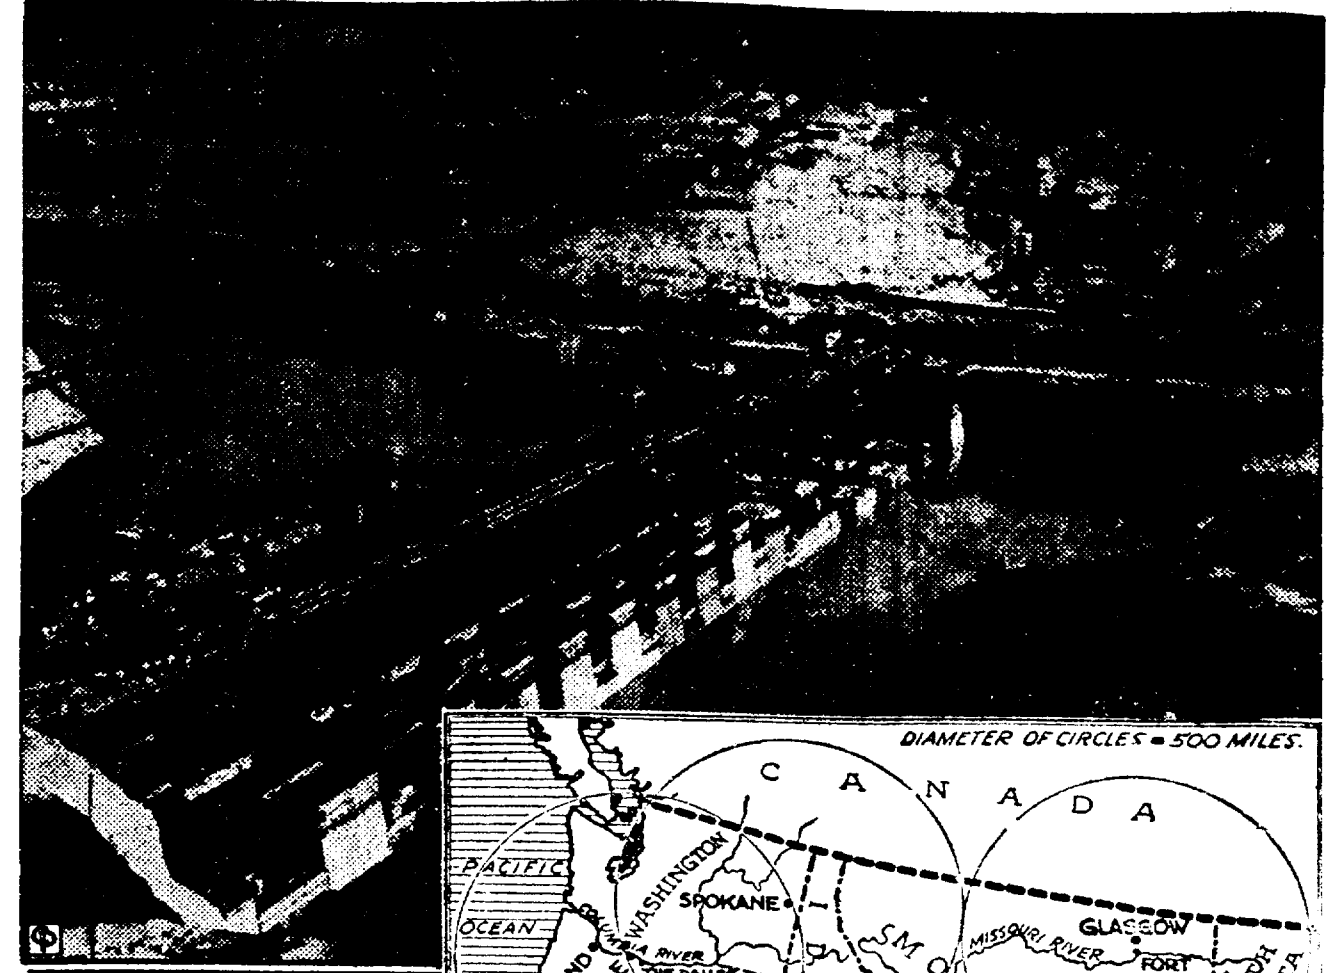

No action will be taken on the purchase of materials for the streets until the amount needed is determined. The ordinance was referred to the service committee and council as a whole to consider under the major street program.

Councilman Clyde Leist recommended to council that a street light be installed on Seyfert avenue. The request was referred to the service committee.

David Courtwright, engineer, recommended many proposed storm sewer improvements but no action was taken. His recommendations follow: catch basins on the east end system on Mingo street at Pleasant alley, Abernethy avenue at Union street, and Abernethy avenue at Mound street; remove old cross-overs at various street and alley intersections, remove old stone sewer in Stevenson's alley, install an 18-inch pipe across Watt street to replace Haswell ditch; on Heffner ditch system — install catch basins in existing sewer to provide better drainage of Lover's Lane and Fairview avenue; install catch basins and manhole in the existing sewer on Watt street at the intersection of Huston street and Maplewood avenue; improve Smith ditch, and on the N. Pickaway street system install a sewer in No. 1 alley to prevent overflow from Pleasant street into Kraft field.

THREE GREAT DAMS IN NORTHWEST NOW MATERIALIZING AS PROJECTS THAT STAGGER ONE'S IMAGINATION

Map shows location of Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Fort Peck dams and the territories where they will develop power; photo shows construction at Grand Coulee.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Draw on a map three circles, each with a diameter of 500 miles, with centers situated at Bonneville, Ore., Spokane, Wash., and Glasgow, Mont.

Picture three dams spilling over their crests water in sufficient abundance to develop three millions of kilowatts of electrical energy, nearly one-twelfth of the total installed capacity in the nation today, and you have a fair picture of the tremendous power, irrigation and navigation development rushing forward in northwestern United States.

The magnitude of these dams staggers the imagination.

Bonneville dam, by developing power and making the Columbia river navigable more than 200 miles distant from the Pacific, will open a vast new industrial and agricultural area.

Dwars Great Pyramid

Grand Coulee, which eventually will provide water over an irrigable area of 1,200,000 acres, will be treble the size of the Great Pyramid, for 70 centuries the world's largest man-made structure.

Ft. Peck will form the largest artificial lake in the world, and control the flow of the lower Missouri, thereby adding immeasurably to commerce along the stream.

Bonneville, situated at the head river 42 miles east of Portland and 144 miles from the Pacific, not only will provide enormous power, but also will permit navigation for 500-foot ocean-going steamers 100 miles further up stream. This dam will create a pool 48 miles long to the Dalles, having a minimum depth of 30 feet, thus eliminating the hazard of the Cascade and other treacherous rapids.

Electricity generated at Bonneville will be supplied by two power units of 43,000 kilowatts each, with provision for unlimited installation of ten additional similar units. From these giant turbines will pour out enough energy to electrify every farm in Washington and Oregon. This mighty project has now been under way four years, and will be completed late in 1937.

Two Dams in One

Grand Coulee is the key development on the Columbia river, which river holds the greatest hydro-electric possibilities of any stream in the United States. In reality, the completed unit will consist of two dams, known as Low dam and High dam.

The ultimate development consists of a concrete straight-gravity dam. Low dam is exclusively a power project. High dam will combine power, irrigation, flood control, storage and navigation development.

High dam will include 18 power units totaling 2,500,000 horsepower, the largest in the world, both as to size of units and plant capacity. It will cost $179,000,000. The structure rises 500 feet above bedrock and measures 4,000 feet long at the crest. Water flowing over the spillway will present one of the world's most remarkable spectacles.

During an era when stupendous projects are being rushed to completion in all sections of the world, Ft. Peck dam will rank among the largest. This dam will be an enormous pile of earth, rock, concrete and steel, 247 feet higher than the river bed, a half mile wide at the bottom and 9,000 feet long. This main section will be flanked by huge dikes, making the total length of the dam about four miles.

Creates Huge Lake

Ft. Peck will create an artificial lake 185 miles long and in places 17 miles wide. By turning water from this great pool into the river under control, a nine-foot depth will be guaranteed steamers and barges in the lower stream as far

East Liverpool Honors Memory of Albert Reid

The esteem in which Albert E. Reid, 36, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Reid, of near Circleville, was held in East Liverpool is shown in a newspaper report of funeral services conducted for him. A native of Pickaway county and a graduate of the Jackson township high school, Mr. Reid died in a Martins Ferry hospital 10 hours after an automobile accident.

The report: More than 400 persons paid respect to the memory of Albert E. Reid, 36, director of the manual arts department in the high school and faculty athletic manager, at funeral services in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Rev. Paul E. Secrest, pastor of the church, of which Mr. Reid was a member; Rev. Harry J. Fisher, pastor of the United Brethren church at Laughlinton, Pa., and brother-in-law of Mr. Reid; John P. Stephenson, faculty member and teacher of the First Methodist Episcopal Power class and Superintendent of Schools Herbert G. Means, took part in the service. The church, filled to capacity with members of the faculty, pupils and friends of Mr. Reid, was banked with baskets of flowers.

Mixed Quartet Sings

A mixed quartet, with Mrs. Millicent DuBois, Mrs. Hazel Griffith Moore, Rowland T. Kaufman and J. W. Newman, gave vocal selections. Mrs. Harold Downard was the organist.

Mr. Means, John W. Vodrey, William Watkins, G. Stewart Thompson, Harry Altman, Clair Chambers and Emmett J. Gaston, of the board of education, were honorary pallbearers. George A. Beck, high school principal; Howard Lindell and Joseph Morbitto of the coaching staff; Ralph E. Johnson, director of the high school band; T. Hart Larkins and H. B. DuBois bore the casket from the church and to the grave in River-view cemetery where the interment took place with a brief ceremony following the rites at the church.

He decried the machine age indirectly responsible for Mr. Reid's death but showed how one can cling to the faith that there is a divine purpose running through life. The fact that the lives of four students, riding in the automobile with Mr. Reid when the accident that resulted in his death occurred, were spared, he said indicates that "through the warp and woof of life there runs the golden thread of Christ."

Rev. Fisher pointed to four outstanding qualities possessed by Mr. Reid—first, that he loved people, loved to make friends and kept them; second, that he always tried to help those with whom he came in contact; third, his love for his family and home, and fourth, that he lived in such a manner that as the chapter of life is closed he stood ready and qualified to enter the chapter of "the life to come."

Mr. Means expressed the deep sense of loss felt by the entire school system. He said students and faculty members had lost not only a good friend but a faithful and devoted worker and that his memory would be cherished not so much as a fellow worker and teacher but as the "criticism of the spirit of camaraderie as well as service."

Good Influence Cited

Mr. Stephenson lauded Mr. Reid as a man whose influence was always for good. He was always energetic, putting forth the supreme effort toward making life more worth living and his friends "can not but know that he has gone to his eternal reward."

Mr. Reid's death occurred in Martins Ferry hospital at 5:30 a. m. Saturday, little more than 10 hours after the automobile, in which he was transporting members of the high school basketball team to play in the district tournament at Tiltonville, overturned while negotiating a curve in Warren, a mile north of the destination.

He suffered leg and pelvic fractures, was rushed to the hospital and later given a blood transfusion. His death was caused by shock and loss of blood.

The four youths riding with him miraculously escaped serious injury. Jack Mailey, 17, received several dislocated vertebrae, Kenneth Seibert, 16, was bruised, and William Vocal, 15, and Jack Hines, 16, were unscathed.

The entire high school was dismissed.

BALDWIN TO RETIRE

PRIME MINISTER STANLEY BALDWIN, too, must properly be included among the great opportunists produced by the turbulent state of world affairs. Announcement has been made from London that he will resign following the coronation of the new King and that he will be succeeded by Neville Chamberlain, now Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. Baldwin has timed his exit with rare discernment and will retire with his prestige in full bloom, his status secure and with a high place in history assured. It would have been under far less propitious circumstances that he would have faded from the picture if he had yielded to the pressure for his resignation some months ago.

At that time, Mr. Baldwin's star was definitely on the decline. Mussolini had treated him contemptuously in the Ethiopian business and had defied with impunity the power of the British Navy. Herr Hitler was hardly more considerate, and it seemed for a while as if the might and the glory that were England's belonged to the history of the dead past.

Subsequently, however, a turn for the better came in the fortunes of the Chancellor. He eased a King from his throne and again became a man to be reckoned with. He launched Britain upon a new drive for military supremacy and demonstrated in other ways that he was the dominating force in the formulation of governmental policies.

Now, while at the peak, he will retire with an earldom as the reward of virtue, of dogged determination and a dash of good luck. In following this course he is judicious. Too many world leaders cling to the heights after their day is done, only to be pushed gently over the edge by the restless foot of a rival.

ANOTHER SCRAP OF PAPER

THE Non-Intervention Committee agreed about a month ago to clamp down on foreign meddling in the Spanish civil war. At that time this agreement was reached—many, many months too late—an estimated 95,000 foreigners were among the embattled forces in the desolation of Spain.

But this agreement, as might have been suspected at the time, was just another scrap of paper, entered into for the sake of appearances, not with a view to permitting the Spaniards to work out their own destinies through the slow and bloody processes of attrition.

Included among the new rebel forces now engaged in a siege of the city, according to reports from Madrid, are 30,000 Italian soldiers, constituting four divisions, each under command of an Italian general whose identity has been established by the Loyalist high command.

This news represents just one more development establishing the status of Spain as conquered territory if the rebels win.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Awake at daylight and almost out of bed before realizing that a halt has to be called somewhere or soon will be rolling out at 3:30 or 4, what with the sun rising earlier each morn, so turned over and tried for sleep. Without success, however, but refused to get up until the seventh hour of the morning did strike. Then downstairs for coffee and the morning paper. Finding little of interest therein, so soon away for the daily stint.

At the post all quiet, but did not Lawrence Goeller and with a pleasant quarter hour in the meantime Lawrence's banker-manufacturer, and Charlie Gilmore by wagon to the home of Mrs. M. A. Starn first of the morning of Alva Starn, Carl Reddick, night nurse known both men for more than a year and always have regarded them as gentlemanly and highly efficient peace officers. Do hope that the charges against them prove groundless, for replacing them on the village's force will be a most difficult task.

Chuckled over Walter Winchell's comment that Hollywood exhibited remarkable restraint in not giving the picture the title of "Terrific Earth." Almost have read that book a dozen times in the last several years, but never have been able to get far in it because dark literature has only slight appeal. Real life provides enough of that.

There's Ed Mason doing the city's work of cleaning the gutter in front of his business establishment. Noted three police tags on autos in the restricted district. Three times within the last week the scrivener has narrowly averted striking big trucks parked at night without lights in the business area. When angle-parked the trucks extend far into the street and constitute a menace that will cost life here one day. To begin with, trucks should not be permitted to park downtown at night, but if they are permitted to do so then they should be lighted sufficiently to warn motorists of danger.

Attended the opening of the cooking school, finding every seat in the Cliftona theatre occupied by interested women. Remained for the style show and about half way through the first cake, deciding then that as I probably will never find it necessary to bake a cake I might just as well leave. When 800 women in a village of this size show as much interest in cooking as those did at the Cliftona it appears that the American home remains an institution despite claims to the contrary.

ROOSEVELT PLAN JEOPARDIZED

WASHINGTON—If the President loses his Supreme Court fight, his defeat will result chiefly from the identical mistake which cost Woodrow Wilson his League of Nations battle—failure to consider the vanities of human nature.

If Wilson had given more consideration to the Senate during the negotiation of the Versailles Treaty and immediately thereafter, the history of the League of Nations might have been different.

How similar was the position of Roosevelt, before he sent his Supreme Court message to Congress, is indicated by a conservation he had with one of his closest friends several weeks before the message was delivered.

Roosevelt had explained in great detail his plan for increasing the Court, told just how he was going to send his message to Congress.

"But, Mr. President," suggested the friend, "don't you think that will come as rather a shock to some people? I don't believe the country is quite prepared for anything so sudden. Don't you think you ought to take at least some of the amendment-minded Senators, such as George Norris and Hiram Johnson, into your confidence?"

"Oh, if they object, I'll send for them." "But what about William Green and some of the farm leaders? Don't you think you'd better get a little advance support from men of that type?"

"Oh, if they kick," blandly replied the President, "I'll call them in, I'll talk to them."

GRAND-STAND

Undoubtedly one reason for Roosevelt's decision not to flatter certain Senators by advance consultation was that there have been leaks from so many of his previous conversations; also because he has such a fine sense of the dramatic.

The President has almost a mania for springing surprises. He loves to put one over on the newspapermen. It is a game with him, sometimes a very serious game, because he has been known to hold up an important move which already had been decided upon, simply because a newspaper broke the story first. On occasion he has upset his entire plan merely to contradict a newspaper story he didn't like.

The President also has great confidence in his personal powers for persuasion. He has come to rely more and more on the method of calling in critical Senators and persuading them. "I'll send for them," is one of his stock expressions. Usually it works.

But during the Supreme Court controversy, delegations of Senators have been leaving the White House with glum and unenthusiastic faces.

It took a long time to convince Roosevelt that his policy of "I'll send for him," would not work this once. That is why he decided to appeal the case over the heads of the Senators to the people.

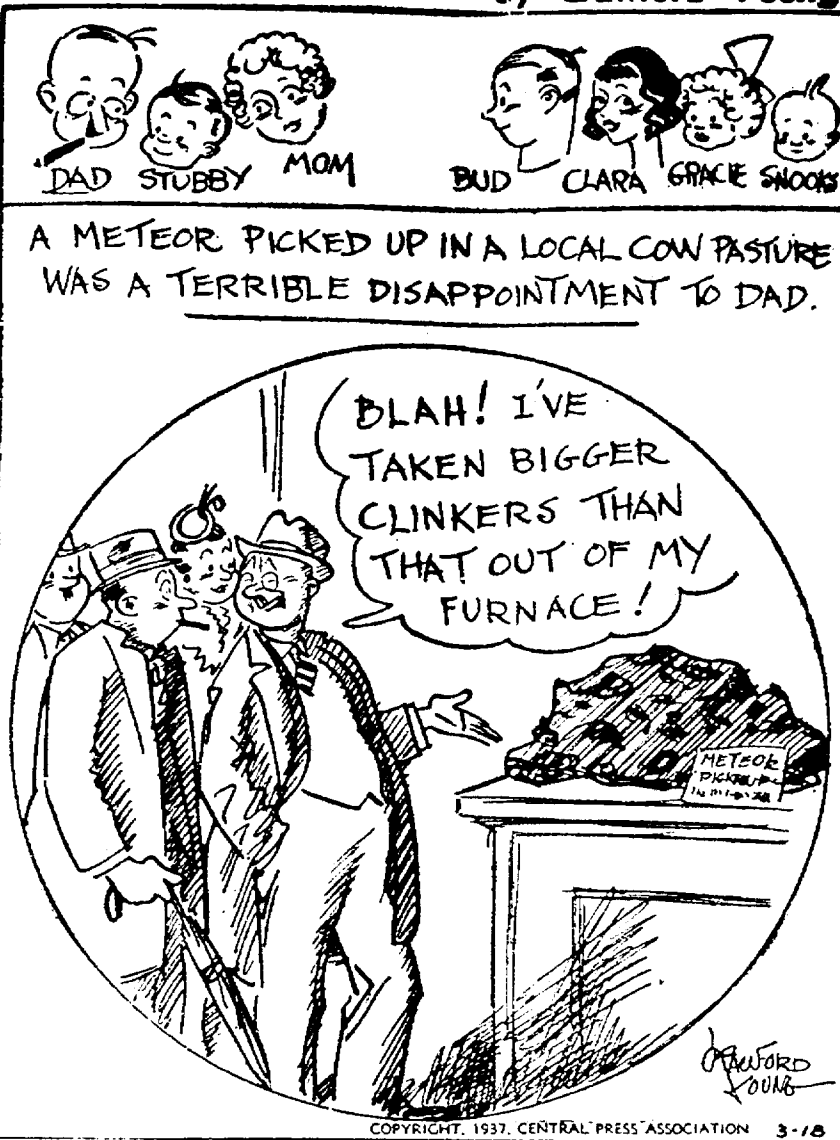

Mussolini's next big job is to keep the people at home from learning just what they won in Africa.

Why travel? In youth you don't learn anything, and when you get older you long for your own bed.

Some men are born great: Some have greatness thrust upon them; and some hire a smart press agent.

Doctor Warns of Blaming Ills on Teething

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
PROBABLY as many superstitions cluster about the question of teething as about any other period of a baby's life. It is still widely believed that teething is the cause of most of a child's illnesses. This is a reflex of the time when the treatment of babies was largely in the hands of the grandmother or nurse, undirected by anything resembling science—catnip and watermelon seed teas, the sugar teat as a pacifier, grandmother chewing the food and putting it into the baby's mouth, all based on the foundation of anything for peace and comfort. An explanation had to be forthcoming for every ill, and as teething persists all through childhood, it became customary to blame everything on this process.

Fever, for instance, was almost always blamed on cutting a tooth. I remember being in consultation in a distracted family with a baby who had a fever for ten days. The last consultant, a physician of the old school, found a tooth a little way beneath the gum, and removing his pocket knife, cut an opening for it, which gained him a great reputation for about 24 hours, when it was found that the real cause of the baby's fever was a pyelitis of the kidney.

Teething Not Cause

Vomiting, diarrhea and convulsions have also been blamed on teething. This simple explanation may be satisfactory, but it leaves the real cause of the trouble untreated.

The formation and development of the teeth is a part of the natural growth, and there is no change taking place in the body in this process which could make the child sick. Of course it is true that the period of teething coincides with the period of the infectious diseases and of many upsets due to change in the digestive canal and an increase in the variety and amount of food eaten, but no parent should be satisfied with the diagnosis of teething as a cause of any serious trouble in childhood.

Along the same line, you frequently hear mothers say that they know the child's gums hurt because he is always biting on something. If you think it over, you will realize that exactly the opposite is the case, and that if the child's gums hurt he won't bite or anything. As a matter of fact, it indicates that the child's gums feel good, and this is a way of wearing the gums down so the teeth can erupt with less distress.

A pacifier may sometimes do good during the teething period, but it is a nervous habit and it likely to grow to undue proportions.

CHAPTER 1

THERE might have been occasions when the offices of Stuckey & Stuckey, solicitors, received the ministrations of a charwoman; but, if so, no living soul could testify to this of his own knowledge. There had been suspicions from time to time: As, for example, when Mr. Joseph Bells, the managing clerk, had arrived one morning in an unusually observant mood and had noticed that the square foot on his desk which he somehow managed to keep clear of documents was of a slightly different shade of dinginess from what he knew to be its normal color. There was, too, ground for suspicion that the window behind Mr. Bells' office chair was letting in more light than usual; but this implied such an unthinkable supposition that he at once concluded the spring sunshine was a little stronger than usual and proceeded to draw the blind farther down.

Mr. Bells was not a lover of strong light; it made his small, almost colorless eyes blink under the powerful lenses of his steel-rimmed spectacles; there may also have been a subconscious realization that the activities of the firm of lawyers which was housed in these dingy two rooms on the ground floor of the building known as 274a, River Street, Rotherhithe, were of the kind upon which it was not desirable that the full glare of daylight should be thrown.

The tall, thin, gloomy-looking clerk sat in his office chair one bright morning in early spring and almost fumed as he glanced at his watch, which indicated that the only other employee of the firm, the lady stenographer, was already twenty minutes late.

Presently he heard footsteps, and a girl slouched rather than walked through the office door, hung her coat and hat negligently on a dusty peg, strolled to a chair in front of a typewriter, stretched herself and yawned as one who has had insufficient sleep, and flopped into the seat with a gesture of infinite weariness. Taking from her large and ornate handbag her powder puff and mirror, she commenced languidly to atone for any cleansing deficiencies of her toilet with a liberal coating of the face powder which, to her, was modern chemistry's greatest gift to women.

Presently:

"Miss Harrington!" called Mr. Bells.

She did not reply, being absorbed just then in retouching with her lipstick the still discernible outline of a rather wobbly cupid's bow drawn with considerable pains the previous evening.

"Miss Harrington!" he said again, a little more loudly this time and with a peremptory note.

With a shrug she swung slowly round to face the managing clerk.

"Oh, good morning, Mr. Bells," she said.

"Are you aware, Miss Harrington, that this office opens at nine o'clock and it's now twenty-three minutes past?"

She stifled another yawn.

"I'm terribly sorry," she drawled.

"You see, I went out last night with such a nice boy, Mr. Bells, and we—er—well, we were rather late getting home. You know what it is, don't you?" She smiled with a lot of teeth into the elderly clerk's face.

"I'm glad to say I don't," said the man shortly. "When I was your age I spent my leisure hours in trying to improve my mind."

She tilted.

"Such a waste of time!"

He frowned.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Harrington?"

She waved a hand round the office.

"Well, look what it's brought you to!"

"I'm glad to say I don't," said the man shortly. "When I was your age I spent my leisure hours in trying to improve my mind."

She tilted.

"Such a waste of time!"

He frowned.

He frowned.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Harrington?"

She waved a hand round the office.

"Well, look what it's brought you to!"

"Who's the cable from, Mr. Bells?"

He turned away with a grunt. He was never at his best in verbal encounters with Miss Harrington; it was not until ten minutes after a minor discomfort such as this that the right, crushing rejoinder occurred to him, and then it was too late to be effective.

The girl pulled the cover from her typewriter. As she did so the telephone bell rang and she rose with a sigh and crossed to the wall where the instrument hung.

"Hello! . . . Yes, this is Stuckey & Stuckey. . . . What name, please? . . . Well, I can't tell you unless you give me your name. Haven't you got a name? Well, what's your number?"

Bells, hearing the telephone, rose.

"Who's that?"

"One of the anonymous ones—a man."

"What did he say?"

"I'd hate to repeat it."

The managing clerk grunted, then took the receiver and spoke into it.

"Hello! . . . Who is it? . . . Yes, old boy; Bells speaking. The governor's not here yet. . . . Yes, old boy. There's a warrant out for you. You'd better get out of the country, old boy. . . . Yes, old boy. Goodbye, old boy." He replaced the receiver with precision and turned to go.

"Who's the old boy, Mr. Bells?" asked Elsie.

"He turned a stern eye to the typist."

"The rule of this office, Miss Harrington, is—no names. You've been here two years and you're about as intelligent now as you were when you came. By the way," he went on, "who was it came here after I went last evening?"

"I'm glad to say I don't," said the man shortly. "When I was your age I spent my leisure hours in trying to improve my mind."

Paint the Floors

In refinishing old houses, a return to the old type of painted floor is being noticed. In many cases the owner doesn't wish to go to the expense of laying a new floor, and the old one can be satisfactorily scraped, cracks filled, and painted with a good quality paint.

Dark red, black or yellow are once again the favorites for this type of finish. Old houses may be modernized with funds extended by a bank or other private financial institution and insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

One of Elizabeth Allan's favorite sandwiches consists of a filling of sliced stuffed green olives and crisp bacon. Miss Allan is a motion picture favorite you know.

DAVEY HONORS WOMEN'S WEEK IN STATEMENT

The following statement, proclaiming "National Business Women's Week", has been issued by Governor Martin L. Davey:

The progress of our nation is aided by the increasingly important position occupied by women in the business and professional fields.

Competent and trained women now hold responsible assignments in our work-a-day world. Many have made distinguished contributions to the public welfare. All merit the recognition that has been accorded them.

Ohio is happy to join with the other states in paying proper tribute to the fine services of women in business and professions. These services mean much to our national life.

Therefore, I, Martin L. Davey, Governor of Ohio, do hereby proclaim the week of March 14th to 20th, as "NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK", and call upon all good citizens to join in its observance.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I subscribed my name and caused the Great Seal of the State of Ohio to be affixed at Columbus, this 11th day of March, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty-Seven. (Signed) MARTIN L. DAVEY.

WASHINGTON-T.P. SCHOOL NEWS

Work has been progressing nicely on the Junior Class play, coached by Miss Routledge. The play "Yimmie Yonsons Yob" is a hilarious comedy from start to finish. The date set for the presentation of the play is Friday night March 19, at 8:00 o'clock.

In music we are preparing for the Spring Music Festival presented by Mr. Warren at New Holland. Mr. Warren has also organized our school orchestra, out of which will be taken several members to participate in the Spring Music Festival.

Our orchestra has started organized practice and is progressing nicely. The will be able to make several public appearances before our school is out in the spring. We are proud of the progress that they are making and we are looking forward to their first public appearance with more than usual enthusiasm.

Different arrangements are being made in the office of the superintendent in our building. The shelves which hold our library books are being rearranged so that more books can be accommodated. More reference books have been purchased by our board and we are looking forward to receiving some more making the total close to fifty new books.

April 16 has been chosen as the date for the presentation of the P. T. A. play. The play is one of "The Paine Publishing Co. popular plays, "The Fortunate Calamity". The characters have been chosen and the first rehearsal will be held March 29, the first Monday following Easter.

RIVERS OF LIQUID SILVER SOON WILL FLOW IN NORTHER MICHIGAN

MELT SUPPLY PROVIDES FETE FOR ESCANABA

King and Queen Chosen to Reign April 1 to 3 During Celebration

BUSHEL BASKETS USED

30 Tons Shipped by Express From City Last Year

ESCANABA, Mich., March 18—Rivers of liquid silver soon will be flowing again in the country around Escanaba. But no natural law will be violated. Silvery-bellied smelt, the smallest commercial fish taken in fresh waters, will be choking the rivers in their annual run upstream to spawn.

Just before the ice breaks up in the northern end of Green bay the smelt migrate from the deeper waters to the shores in search of streams in which to spawn. The time of this movement determines the time of Escanaba's smelt jamboree—"The Mardi Gras of the North."

Celebration
A king and a queen of Smeltiana, the region of rich smelt streams near the head of Green bay, are chosen to reign during the two-day celebration. A parade, a jamboree show, dancing and fireworks precede the king's official opening of the smelt fishing season. Pretty Rose Ann Nadalski is this year's queen. She will reign throughout the jamboree from April 1-3.

The smelt themselves make this a nocturnal festival, for since they shun the light, the spawning runs begin each night at about 11 o'clock. They continue over a period of two or three weeks, with a run upstream each night and another back downstream again just before dawn.

Bonfires line the banks of the streams as thousands of fishermen await the runs. They are armed with dip nets 18 inches in diameter, the largest size legally permitted.

"Here they come!" The cry goes up at the mouth of the river as the first of the oncoming fish are netted, and the word, "The run is on," is passed along ahead of that first silver wave of fish.

Scooped Up by Bushels

Scoop and dump; scoop and dump. At first by twos and threes, and then by eights and tens the shiny smelt are dipped from the water and nets are emptied into bushel baskets. At the peak of the run, which occurs when the ice goes out of the mouth of the river, there seem to be more fish than water in the stream, and three good scoops of an 18-inch net will fill a bushel basket.

Last year 30 tons of smelt were shipped by express from Escanaba. Shipment of souvenir boxes of smelt to service clubs, sportsmen's organizations and celebrities throughout the country already is well under way. Requests for more than 20,000 pounds have been received by the queen of Smeltiana. Last year free boxes of smelt were sent to 300 organizations and celebrities.

The length of the smelt in the spawning run ranges between six and twelve inches. These oceanic fish were first introduced from a federal hatchery in Maine, in 1912, to provide food for the Sebago salmon, which was brought in at the same time, as well as for other fish. Later plantings also were made, but the salmon definitely failed to "take hold" and the smelt also seemed to have succumbed to the drastic change in their environment. It was not until 1921 that they reappeared.

There is a deep element of mystery in the spawning runs. Until late March or the first week of April the smelt are deep water fish whose sole activity is to eat and to avoid being eaten. But at that time no matter where they are, they turn and fight their way like salmon to the rivers and streams, dying by thousands in their movement upstream to perpetuate the species.

FEDERAL LAND PROJECT GETS 626 NEW ACRES

CHILLICOTHE, March 18—Project Manager H. A. Cattell, in charge of the Colerain-Harrison section of the Ross-Hocking reforestation conservation projects, reports that deeds have passed for some 626 acres more of lands taken over by the federal government in that submarginal region.

The tracts transferred were those owned by W. F. Schooley, C. H. Fyffe, and David Walsh. The total paid for these tracts was $3800.
Mr. Cattell says that the project has now secured some 70 percent of the total outlined to be secured. The total amount paid for the 8,764 acres to date is $59,830.
The recent unseasonable weather has slowed up field work, according to Mr. Cattell, but grading and foundation work for the big recreational center mess hall have been given some attention. The logs are being prepared also, and when the weather permits, that building will be erected in short order.
Other portions of the work, mapped out, will also be carried on, Mr. Cattell said Wednesday.

AT THE CIRCLE

So accomplished that she played in "As the Earth Turns" for Warner's, and so young that it was her first screen appearance, little Joyce Kay is building for a great future on the screen. She appears most recently in "Rio Grande Romance", at the Circle Theatre in support of Eddie Nugent and Maxine Doyle.

AT THE CLIFTONA

A motion picture that rates an excellent chance of being selected as one of the best of the year is "River of Unrest," which opens at the Cliftona Theatre Friday.

Advance notices from the few cities where it has been shown so far indicate that once more the movie-makers have turned out a stirring piece of entertainment.

Realism is said to be the keynote of this CB release featuring John Lodge, John Loder and Antoinette Cellier. The director of this picture, which deals with the Irish rebellion in the early twenties, made sure of the authentic atmosphere by actually bringing over from Dublin a number of the men who participated in those thrilling events.

AT THE GRAND

Dick Foran, singing star of Warner Bros. Western film, "California Mail," now showing at the Grand Theatre, has a collection of Indian war paraphernalia the prize item of which is an Apache war drum which can be heard for miles when tapped lightly. So menacing is the beat of this ancient drum that several radio policemen invaded his Hollywood apartment when the small son of his landlord started to thump it during Foran's absence.

Strange people, these Europeans. They're coming three thousand miles to throw themselves into the merciless clutches of old Uncle Shylock.

OUTSTANDING FAVORITE MISSING AS TEAMS LINE UP FOR STATE TOURNEY.

35'S TITLISTS BACK IN JOUST FOR SECOND TRY

Half of Class 'A' Contenders Have Chance For Crown Observers Believe

BLUFFTON CREW WATCHED

Bridgeport Entry Takes High Scoring Mark to Floor

COLUMBUS, March 18.—(UP) The most coveted prizes in Ohio's scholastic athletic kingdom went on the block here today as the annual state basketball tournament opened.

On separate fronts the Class "A" and "B" teams opened their battles for the crowns now in possession of Newark and Sandusky St. Marys.

Sixteen games were scheduled for the opening day and at the end of the round the field of 32 will be cut in half. The survivors will then converge in the barn-like Fairgrounds Coliseum to continue their championship fights. Fine all-round balance and team strength in the draw indicated the present tournament would be one of the most successful in history.

No Favorite Appears

The tournament will be opened without the nomination of a heavily backed favorite in either Class.

At least one-half of the Class "A" entrants were considered titlist possibilities and observers were reluctant to name a choice until after the smoke of first round games had cleared and all quintets had been tested under the pressure of state tournament competition.

In Class "B" the race was still wider open. The combines in the lower division were from scattered villages and hamlets and have met few common foes. Most Class "B" champions spring from nowhere without advance notice and the condition probably will prevail again this season.

The top spot of the early Class "A" games went to Newark and Massillon. Newark, the first defending champion the large school group has had since 1933, was slight underdog. It matched its speed and aggressiveness against the better balance and finesse of Massillon.

In the other afternoon games Marietta faced Rossford; Middletown engaged Canton McKinley; and Cincinnati Hughes opposed Ashland.

Doughty little Sandusky St. Marys, the reigning "B" titlist, played Amsterdam in the featured early games. The other battles sent Enon against Canal Fulton; Middleport against Union City and

STAR TO COACH - By Jack Sords

PRESNELL IS A GRADUATE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA WHERE HE WAS ONE OF ITS GREATEST BACKS

Ontario against Columbus Upper Arlington.

Two "A" games shared the headline positions of the night. They pitted Lima South against Akron North and Bridgeport against Salem.

Lima vs. Akron

The Lima South-Akron North game will open the night's program. South, beaten only twice during the regular campaign and then by margins of one and two points, was conceded the slight edge over the Akron quintet.

The highest scoring schoolboy quintet in the state and a "dark-horse" five faced each other in the Bridgeport-Salem battle.

Bridgeport has averaged 47 points a game this season over a stretch of 24 games. Its starting team is composed entirely of seniors. Two of the stars, Jim Bolon and "Chuck" Reynolds played regularly on the combine that went to the semi-finals here a year ago before losing to Newark 32 to 22.

Salem, coached by Herb Brown, a former Ohio State star, reached top form in the district meet when it edged a highly favored Akron West quintet.

Salem's chances against Bridgeport depend on how its lanky center, Johnny Lutsch, performs in comparison with Reynolds. The latter is the key-man of Coach Floyd Baker's team. His ability to control the tip-off has been a big factor in the 22 victories his team run up this season.

The highly regarded Bluffton team received the featured billing of the "B" games at night for its battle with Lucasville.

Bluffton campaigned for the greater part of the season against Class "A" schools and enjoyed signal success. It is regarded as a favorite over Lucasville, a southeastern district representative.

Bluffton is conceded an excellent chance of being the lower bracket's representative in the finals.

In other "B" games at night Lockland will meet Ottoville; Olmsted Falls will face Danville; and Midvale will tangle with South Amherst.

KANSAS RUNNER BEATS ROMANI IN GOTHAM TILT

NEW YORK, March 18.—(UP)—King Glenn Cunningham of Kansas still was not ready to abdicate his mile throne today after running the fastest race of the indoor season in the 18th annual K. of C. meet at Madison Square Garden.

Cunningham made his famous bell-top "kick" to overtake Archie San Romani, also a Kansan, and beat him to the tape by a yard last night in four minutes, eight and 7-10 seconds — three-tenths of a second slower than the world record of 4:08.4 he set in this same race three years ago.

Indiana's distance star, Don Lash, led his two teammates, Tommy Deckard and Jim Smith, to victory in the two-mile race. Lash was timed in 9:09.0, a new meet record but 11 seconds slower than the world mark he established at Boston last month.

WARNEKE GIVEN DEAN'S POSITION IN CARD LINEUP

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 18.—(UP)—Lon Warneke was named for Dizzy Dean's No. 1 spot on the St. Louis Cardinals pitching staff, Manager Frankie Frisch said today as his team prepared to meet the National League champions in the rubber game of their exhibition series.

"I can't wait for Dizzy to make up his mind what he's going to do," he said, "and I like Lon's pitching skill and his spirit." Owner Sam Breadon declared Dizzy had not written him asking his voluntary retirement. "But it's all right with us," he added, "we'll still report in Cincinnati on April 20 for the opening of the season."

CAGE MAGNATES ELIMINATE LEAP IN COURT GAME

Center Jump to be Used Only at Start of Half, After Technical, Double Foul

BIG MEN TO LOSE OUT

Overtime Periods Revised Under New Ruling

CHICAGO, March 18.—(UP)—Rules of the National Basketball Rules committee were altered today to provide for jumps at center only at the start of each half and the overtime period, and after technical and double fouls.

Members of the committee acting on recommendation of the National Coaches association, voted yesterday to eliminate the jump after field goals.

The speeded-up game was demanded by an overwhelming majority of members, who pointed out it has been adopted by the Pacific coast and Western conferences. Only opposition came from the deep south.

May Change Personnel

The change was expected to have important effect on team personnel. Henry V. Porter, Chicago, committee chairman, pointed out that the former regulation placed a premium on jumping specialists and "we found too many big men were coming into the game."

Many committee members felt the game could be speeded up and given back to "men of normal size," Porter said.

The committee changed its high school code to provide that the first team to score two points in overtime periods wins the game. Prep games henceforth will be permitted to increase "time outs" to five each half. Overtime periods will be limited to two.

BISHOP CAGER TO JOIN 'PRO' RANKS MONDAY

DELAWARE, March 18.—(UP) Johnny McAdams, for three seasons a star forward of Ohio Wesleyan basketball teams and an All-Buckeye conference choice during the last campaign, today announced he would turn professional.

McAdams will team with a group of other former Wesleyan stars in his professional debut here next Monday night against the Waterloo Wonders.

With his decision to play professional basketball, McAdams will forfeit his right to compete in college baseball this spring. He was a regular outfielder on the Wesleyan team that shared in the Buckeye championship a year ago.

Church Installs Headphones

MORRIS, Ill. (UP)—Headphones to aid deaf members of a local church will be installed as the result of action taken at a special meeting of the congregation. The amplifying units will be installed in certain pews and connected with a microphone at the altar so that sermons, music and other announcements may be heard by all members of the congregation.

PETRIFIED CAT PROBLEM

SYDNEY (UP)—A petrified cat listed among the possessions of G. H. Stelling on his arrival from London puzzled customs officers here. The cat was discovered 30 years ago in a house in Staffordshire, wedged between a skirting board and the wall. Water impregnated with minerals had hardened the body till the skin was like bone.

About This And That In Many Sports

Short Buys Ray Henley

Harry Short, native of Circleville and a brother of Auditor Forrest Short, has had a part in one of the most important horse sales completed in Ohio in recent years. Acting for "Maine interests," Short purchased Ray Henley (2:01 1/4), a sensational pacer, from Joe Haigler, Xenia horseman. The horse, one of the most consistent to race the tracks of the nation in the last seven years, brought "four figures," Haigler reported—Ray Henley will be shipped to Columbus this week to be prepared for an Ohio campaign before going East.

Many Records Held

The pacer was sired by Peter Henley, double-gaited champion and raised by the late George Haigler, Joe's father. Foaled in 1927, he has raced since 1930, and has compiled winnings of $14,000. He won his mark on the mile oval at Lexington, Ky., and has a half-mile track record of 2:02 1/4, set at the Ohio State Fair Grounds. Ray Henley holds the track records for fair grounds tracks at Xenia, London, Mount Gilead, Fremont, Greenville, and Troy. In 70 races in seven years, he has finished 53 times and has been out of the money only twice.

Some of Birds Certain

A few of the athletes who will grace the lineup of the Columbus Red Birds when they swing into action early in April have come to light—Lynn King, who spent all of last year with the Cardinals, will be in the middle pasture. Chick Fullis will be in left, unless a heavier hitter can be obtained. Jimmy Jordan will play second, with Pat Ankenman short or third, with Jimmy Webb at short or third. Dick Seibert, now with the Cards, may be assigned to play first base. The catcher, from all indications, will be Jim Glick, a first year man, who has shown a lot of form.

Janitor Picks Two

The state tournament opens tonight, and with it will rise or fall the hopes of 32 basketball teams. Class B schools will compete in the Ohio State gymnasium in their first round encounters, while the "A" teams will battle it out in the fairgrounds coliseum. Favorites?—there might be lots of them, but who will win is another question. The janitor is not limiting the selection to one team, but picking two out of the 16 "A" quintets to go farthest. They are Massillon and Bridgeport.

TWO ATHLETES IN BATTLE FOR PIRATE BERTH

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 18.—(UP)—Manager Pie Traynor was contentedly watching today a duel between veteran Pep Young and Lee Handley, $20,000 rookie bought at the Montreal meeting, for the Pittsburgh Pirates second base post.

Both rose to heights under the spur of competition. The ordinarily weak-hitting Young was smashing the ball to the fences. The crowd cheered yesterday as Traynor sent both in alternately.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

VIENNA COUP AND SQUEEZE DIFFER

AS REQUESTED, Saturday we showed how East could make 6-No Trumps, against an opening lead of the 7 of hearts, by using the Vienna Coup. Today we will show how the contract also can be fulfilled by means of the more common squeeze, and how strategy differs in the two cases.

♠ K 8
♥ K J 10 5 2
♦ K 10 5
♣ K J 2

♠ J 9 7 5 4
♥ 8 6

♣ 10 6

♠ A Q 10 2
♥ A Q 9
♦ A Q 8
♣ A Q 9

The play of the first six tricks must go the same, whether Vienna Coup or squeeze is employed. North will play his 10 of hearts. Declarer's Q will win. The Ace of spades must be led, followed by the Q of that suit, giving North his one and only trick, with the K of spades. He will lead back his K of hearts at the fourth trick, thus establishing his suit. Declarer will win with the Ace. The 2 of spades will be led and overtaken with dummy's 7. At the sixth trick lead the J of diamonds. North must cover with the K to prevent declarer from running three tricks in that suit, without opposition, which would be equal to handing the small slam to him without defense. Win with declarer's Ace of diamonds, completing the sixth trick played, and the fifth trick won by declarer.

At the beginning of the seventh trick declarer now has to decide whether he will lead off his Q of diamonds, to play the Vienna Coup, as was done Saturday, and then enter dummy with its top spade, or play for the squeeze, by keeping his Q of diamonds, and at once entering dummy with its J of spades. We will play the squeeze, by leading the last spade from declarer's hand at the seventh trick (not the eighth, as was done Saturday). Win with dummy's J. North will let go his 5 of hearts. Lead dummy's 9 of spades at the eighth trick. North must keep his J of hearts or declarer's 9 will become good. Have North let go his lowest club. Declarer will keep his three clubs and let go his lower diamond. The five cards held by the three hands capable of taking a trick will be as shown below. Note that they differ from what were held Saturday.

♠ J
♥ 10 5

♠ 5

♦ 10 5

**♠
♥ A Q 9
♦ A Q 8
♣ A Q 9

Lead dummy's last spade. Hold declarer's heart. If you wish, in case North lets go his J, to let go one of declarer's clubs. Normal play is for North to hold his J of hearts and let go one of his diamonds. In that case declarer must let go his losing heart and his four cards will win all remaining tricks, by leading a club through North.

RECORDS OF CITY, COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICTS LAUDED BY STATE EXAMINER

MAJOR FINDINGS REPORTED AFTER WORK IS ENDED

Darby School to Receive $863 Due From its Depository

BOARD PAID ILLEGALLY

Money For Hauling Pupils to Contests Assailed

Boards of education of Circleville and Pickaway county conduct their business, generally in an efficient manner. A report of State Examiner Vivian Dowds and her aide, Dorothy Weiner, was submitted to the county auditor and prosecutor, Wednesday.

The findings for recovery were minor with a total of $1,397.96 listed for all schools of the city and county. Chief item in this list was $863.43 due the Darby township school from its depository. Circleville is listed to receive $46.63 due as tuition from a rural pupil. The Williamsport clerk is to collect $20 each from five board members, illegally paid as salary.

In nearly all school districts, clerks and boards were complimented for the manner in which their records are kept and their business transacted.

The report covered the period Jan. 1, 1935 to Jan. 5, 1937.

Illegal Pay Cited

Payment to bus drivers for hauling pupils to music festivals, various contests and entertainment was warned against in the report, which said boards had no authority to spend public funds for this purpose. Neither are boards permitted to spend general fund money for athletic equipment or supplies.

In several instances where lunchrooms were operated for personal gain, the examiners warned that all such rooms should be controlled by the boards with profit going to the school district. Several schools made this change on recommendation of the examiners, employing individuals to run the lunchrooms instead of turning the business over to them.

Action of the Circleville board in raising the salary of Supt. Frank Fischer was revoked. The board voted to increase the salary at the conclusion of Mr. Fischer's first year of a two-year contract. The examiners held pay cannot be raised during the term for which an official is employed.

Camels have been barred from the streets of Jaffa in Palestine because they move too slowly. Things are indeed surging ahead when the traditionally unchanging East desires to move forward faster than a camel's pace.

from Honolulu, where department of commerce engineers have prepared a special runway for her arrival and take-off.

2,550 Over Water

Next comes a 2,550 mile flight entirely over water, to Lae, in the New Guinea gold mining region. From there, a comparatively easy 1,200 mile hop to Darwin is scheduled.

From Darwin, Miss Earhart will continue alone, swinging north to Karachi, India, and eastward toward home across the Persian gulf, to the port of Aden, over Africa in easy stages and the regular commercial route to Natal, Brazil.

Amelia Calm, Poised

Until the time of her take-off, the 38-year-old woman flier was calm and poised as any of her men companions, more so than her husband who is her business manager but seldom accompanies her on the perilous expeditions.

She said the flight was purely scientific. It will cost an estimated $100,000, of which Purdue university is furnishing about half. Putnam contributed the rest. Some will be regained by the thousands of stamp cachets which Miss Earhart is carrying for $2.50 to $5 each.

Denying that she is seeking speed records or more laurels, Miss Earhart said she was mainly interested in testing scientific safety and navigation devices which are installed on her plane.

She will explore no new air routes, but will use the regular commercial facilities in each of the five continents on her way, and will make no attempt to lower the round-the-world speed record of 7 days, 18 hours, 49½ minutes set by Wiley Post.

Her only personal effects were in one suitcase, an extra pair of slacks, two shirts and toilet articles. The rations consisted of sandwiches, coffee and cocoa, and apples. Stacked beside the technical apparatus, were flares, a pistol, and a bright orange kite to send aloft as a distress signal in case of accident in the daylight hours.

The story of Miss Earhart's career began during the World War which found her in social work in Canada, at the age of 17. She was lured by the active life that aviation offered and became the first woman to receive an international pilot's license—of the Federation Aeronautique International.

First Over Atlantic

She was the first woman to fly across the Atlantic as a passenger and wrote a book on her experience. That enterprise introduced her to Putnam, who was then a publisher, and they were married in 1931 after Putnam's wife divorced him.

On her solo flight across the Atlantic, in May, 1932, she set a speed record of 14 hours and 56 minutes, crossing from Newfoundland to Londonderry, Ireland. She is fluent in five languages and has done research work in experimental and calculative chemistry.
